NEWSROOM NOTES—The pollution of our environment seems so large in scope that the average person feels hopeless in transforming his concern into constructive action. Certainly, there must be more for him to do than switching to returnable bottles and unleaded gas.

There is. There's a lot more. Plant materials are among the most effective fighters of pollution in existence. Every citizen has an opportunity to help improve the environment by planting more trees, shrubs, ground covers, vines or grass in areas where they will be able to use their anti-pollution talents.

If you're a homeowner, begin in your own backyard. Plant a row of arbovitae along the rear property line to reduce the noise level from that freeway two blocks away. Plant a shade tree here and there throughout the yard to catch the pollutants in the air and hold them until you can hose them into the ground.

Talk with your neighbors about trying to get a few trees planted along the street to add some beauty to the neighborhood. Talk to the men at the office about taking that vacant lot behind the warehouse and turning it into a small park for the relaxation of employees and neighborhood residents. Talk to the members of your Rotary Club about closing a few blocks of the downtown area to automobiles and turning the street into a mall filled with trees and shrubs that will clear the air and release fresh oxygen.

The average American who is willing to invest a little extra time and money—and who might be able to exert some leadership with his friends and colleagues—may very well be one of America's greatest hopes for catching up with and overtaking the deterioration of the environment.

Robert F. Lederer, executive vice president of the American Association of Nurserymen, recently predicted that it is the individual who is going to be the solution to environmental problems. "What a different place our world would be if each citizen would plant trees to purify the air and trap dust, create greenbelts to fight smog, plant green sound barriers to abate noise, and join with others to create micro-environments of beauty and relaxation," he said.

The association, through its annual Landscapes Awards Program, paid tribute last year to a church in the center of New York City that had created a garden reminiscent of an oriental meditation garden to give Manhattan office workers and residents a place where they can temporarily get away from the tensions of the city.

The year before a bank in Charleston, S.C., received an award for taking leadership in restoring part of downtown Charleston to the quiet, gracious atmosphere of an earlier century.

"Green Survival" is the name the association has given their campaign to improve the environment. Even the words convey a sense of hope. But the hope has to be translated into action.

And it has to begin with you.

SAIGON (AP)—South Vietnamese forces with American bomber and gunship support fought their way into the Laotian town of Sepone today and cut the Ho Chi Minh trail network around it, a South Vietnamese spokesman said.

Lt. Col. Le Thung Hien told newsmen at the rear headquarters in Dong Ha that 200 North Vietnamese died in today's fighting in and around Sepone, and major war stockpiles were uncovered including an ammunition dump with 300 tons of munitions.

"At 1300 hours an element of the South Vietnamese 1st Infantry Division entered Sepone," Hien said.

On the Vietnam side of the border, 19 of the enemy's rockets crashed into the allies' forward base at Khe Sanh and sources said two South Vietnamese were killed and 10 wounded. The U.S. Command said it had no reports of American casualties and damage was light.

Associated Press correspondent J.T. Wolkstorf reported from the northern front that the area struck by the rockets is congested by several infantry units and a major communications system.

The command disclosed that five more American helicopters and a fighter-bomber were shot down and destroyed supporting the Laos operation, and seven airmen were listed as missing. The losses brought to 52 the number of helicopters acknowledged by the command as downed, but sources said twice that number have been brought down. The command does not report as lost helicopters it retrieves from Laos. Three fighter-bombers also have been lost.

Other helicopters braved the heavy anti-aircraft fire to ferry 1,000 South Vietnamese reinforcements to join 1,000 already near Sepone. Field reports said the reinforcements moved to the high ground north of the enemy transshipment point. The others had seized the area south of the town.

The magnitude of the U.S. air support of the operation was underscored in a U.S. communique that reported more than 2,400 helicopter missions into Laos Friday, double the number flown in any other day during the 27-day campaign. More than half of the missions were troop lifts, leapfrogging South Vietnamese soldiers around in new mobile tactics put into use three days ago.

A South Vietnamese communique said Saigon infantry and U.S. bombers and gunships killed 253 North Vietnamese Friday, and Saigon forces found stockpiles of war materials and food during fights as close as 4.3 miles to Sepone. Saigon reported losses of two soldiers killed and 38 wounded.

Sepone, in the heart of Hanoi's network of trails for carrying supplies southward, is a major objective of the air and ground campaign to disrupt supply movement. Sepone is on Highway 9 bisecting the Ho Chi Minh trail and is 25 air miles west of the Vietnam border.

"The South Vietnamese have cut all the access highways in all directions around Sepone," one U.S. source said. "They control the high ground. There is no way to get around unless the North Vietnamese go to the extreme west of Sepone."

South Vietnamese headquarters said in its evening communique that since the Laotian operation began Feb. 9, North Vietnam has lost 5,274 men in ground fighting air and artillery strikes. The communique said 1,785 rifles and 385 heavy weapons have been seized and 75 tanks and more than 12,000 tons of munitions have been destroyed. South Vietnamese losses were listed as 447 troops killed, 99 missing and 1,473 wounded.

Trial pace slows

Legal maneuvering by defense attorney Henry S. Dixon, representing Mary E. Sneed, 312 College Ave., charged with the Sept. 26, 1970, stabbing death of her husband, Claude, slowed testimony this morning in an unusual Saturday session in Circuit Court.

Dixon called as his second defense witness of the morning, Mrs. David Sneed, daughter-in-law of the accused woman, and began questioning her about an alleged telephone conversation between the two on the morning of the stabbing. State's Attorney Albert Kennedy immediately objected to the line of questioning, citing the conversation was hearsay evidence. A number of conferences between the two attorneys and Judge William B. Phillips then ensued, with the outcome still not certain as The Telegraph went to press.

Earlier this morning Curtis Gilbert, a neighbor of the Snees, testified he observed Claude Sneed twice on the morning of the stabbing. "Staggering around," Kennedy's cross examination delved into whether or not Gilbert, from his observations, could actually tell if Sneed had been drinking, and drew a negative response.

The state had finished its presentation of the case shortly before noon yesterday, and Dixon began his defense presentation Friday afternoon.

In his opening remarks, Dixon told the jury he intended to show two defenses—justification for the action, and secondly, that Mrs. Sneed was emotionally and mentally incompetent at the time of the incident. Delays have been the mark of the trial so far, with an hour and a half delay Friday afternoon, when Dixon, Kennedy and Phillips huddled for about an hour and a half after Kennedy objected to the line of Dixon's remarks pertaining to Sneed's alleged alcoholism.

Before Dixon began his presentation Friday, he routinely asked for a directed verdict of not guilty and for dismissal of the murder count. Both were denied by Phillips.

Testimony will continue today and is expected to run into Monday before the case goes to the jury.

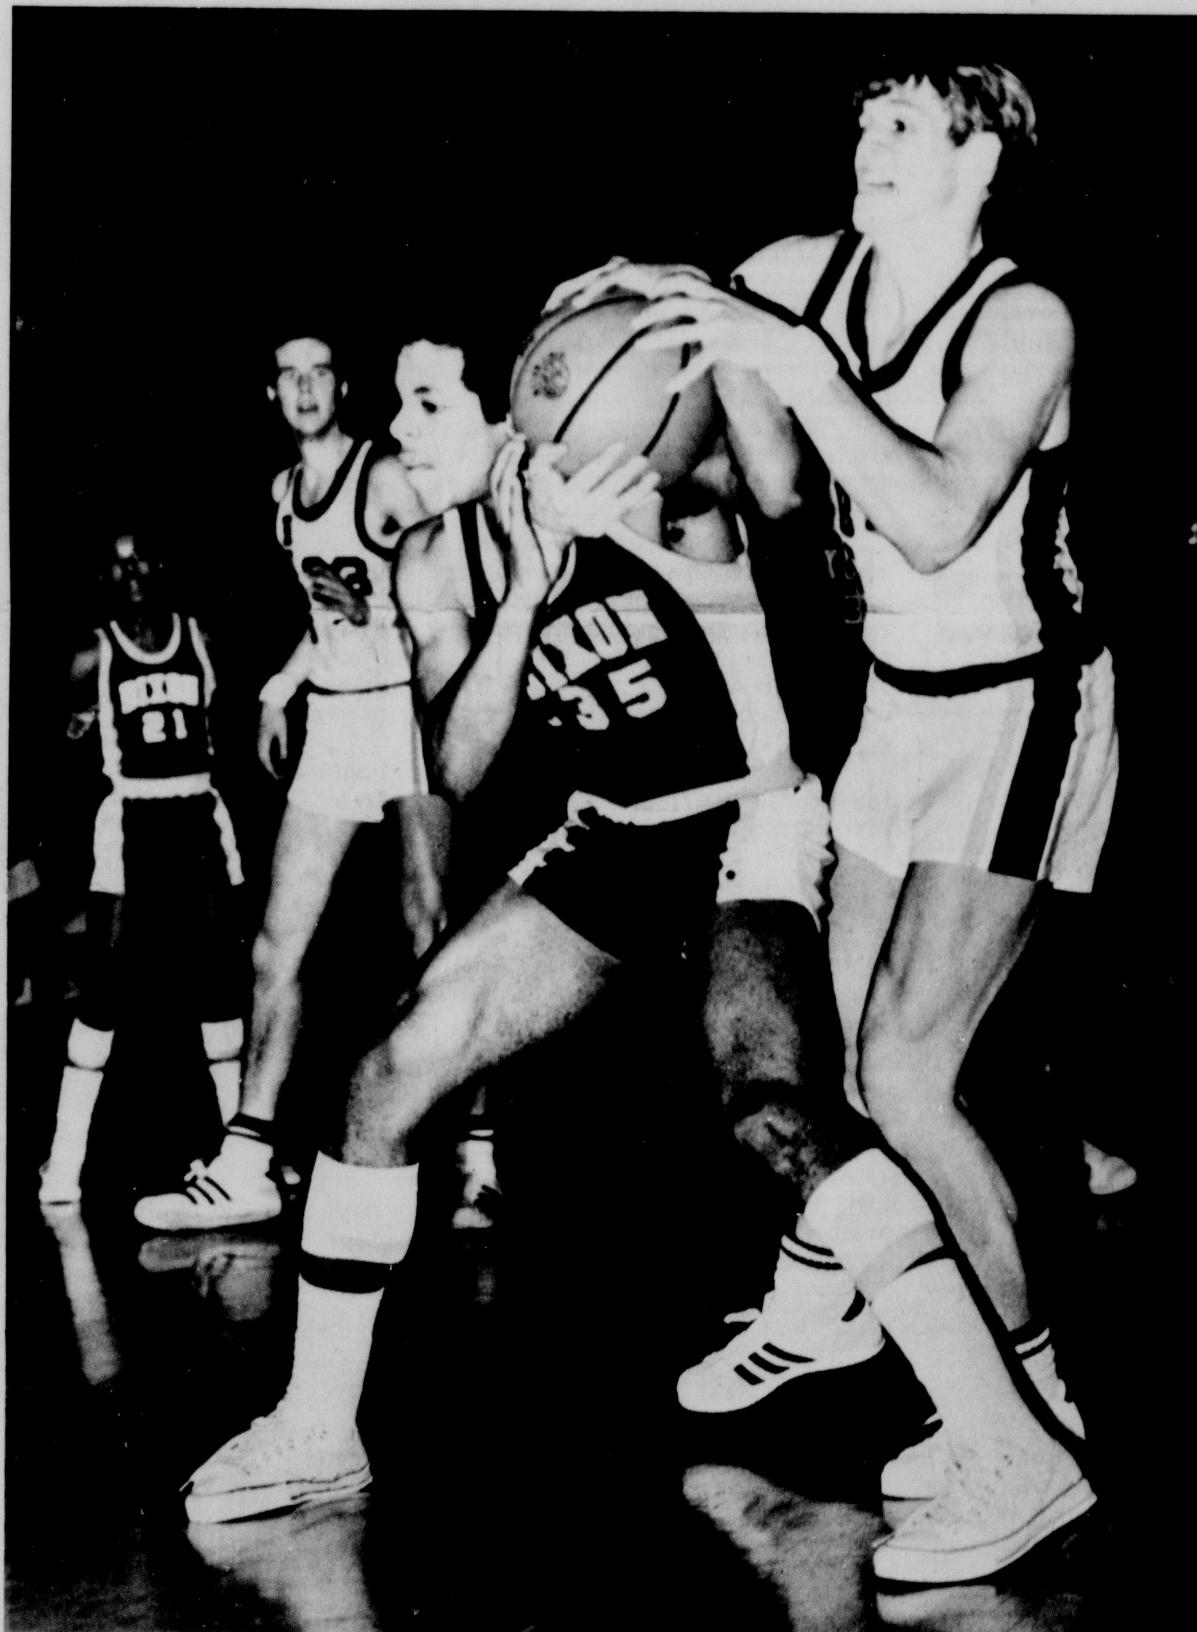

An unusal prexy

LONDON (UPI)—Students at the London School of Economics have chosen female impersonator Danny La Rue to be their honorary president.

"Most flattered I am, and surprised too," La Rue said of his selection Friday. "I'm not a university type. I had just an ordinary elementary education."

La Rue said he would not wear his women's clothes when he went to the university to accept the presidency.

"I never do. The only time I appear in drag—for want of a better word—is when I get paid for it," he said.

War of words

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Nixon's refusal to allow non-Cabinet advisers to testify before Congress has stirred a war of words in the Senate.

Democrats charge Nixon is invoking executive privilege to hide developments in Southeast Asia, while Republicans contend it's a partisan political plot.

At issue is the Foreign Relations Committee's desire to question Henry Kissinger, President Nixon's national-security-affairs adviser.

Chairman J.W. Fulbright, D-Ark., and Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., say Kissinger has all but taken over as the nation's chief foreign-policy adviser from Secretary of State William P. Rogers.

In this case, the name of the game is "executive privilege" and the historic prerogative of a president to withhold any person or document from congressional scrutiny any time he chooses.

Fulbright, in a speech to the Senate, called this a wall of secrecy behind which the administration has hidden vital decisions on the Indochina war.

He has introduced legislation to breach the wall by permitting Congress to summon presidential assistants to its committees.

And Friday, Republican Leader Hugh Scott added to the war of words:

"This is taking on the nature of a partisan witch hunt and everyone suspects Kissinger is a man they could have a lot of fun with."

Scott said a president has an inherent legal and constitutional right to say who should speak for him to Congress.

Three of the principals in the fuss about Nixon's foreign-policy advisers met face-to-face Friday in a discussion that was all sweetness and light and touched only momentarily on the controversy.

Rogers appeared before Fulbright's committee and had a friendly exchange with Symington.

Symington's charge that Rogers, because of Kissinger's alleged takeover of foreign-policy authority, has become a laughingstock of Washington society was not mentioned.

It was that remark that President Nixon, at his Thursday night news conference, called a cheap shot.

But Rogers got in a word when Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., a member of Foreign Relations, asked: "Mr. Secretary, are you in full charge here—nobody's giving you orders?"

Of course the President's giving orders," Rogers replied with a smile. "But I'm next in line."

Ex-Whiteside County official is indicted

MORRISON, Ill. (AP)—Donald Cole, 42, former Civil Defense director of Whiteside County, was indicted Friday on charges of theft involving county funds.

Sheriff Lester Kimmel said the charge involved the purchase of appliances with county funds totaling $600. The appliances could not be found. Kimmel said.

Cole, Civil Defense director from 1957-70, was arrested, then released on $10,000 bond pending a hearing March 12.

Plea by U.S. envoy for safe return of airmen

ANKARA, Turkey (AP)—U.S. Ambassador William Handley appealed Friday night for the safe return of four kidnapped American servicemen held for $400,000 ransom. But the deadline for payment set by their kidnapers passed this morning with no word about their fate.

"It is my fervent hope that those who are holding the four airmen have heard my appeal and will release them soon and safely," Handley said in a statement this morning. He said the Turkish Foreign Ministry arranged the broadcast over the state radio.

The kidnapers, leftists called, the Turkish People's Liberation Army, demanded payment by 6 a.m. today—11 p.m. Friday EST—and said they would shoot the Americans if the money was not forthcoming.

The Turkish government refused to bow to the demand and after a meeting of the cabinet Friday night Labor Minister Seyfi Ozturk said, "You don't bargain with bandits."

The only official conciliatory gesture was the radio report of Handley's appeal.

President Nixon told a Washington news conference Thursday that the administration would not apply pressure on the Turkish government to negotiate with terrorists.

A mammoth search for the kidnapers by police and Turkish troops triggered a gun battle between students and troops Friday in which a student and a soldier were killed and more than a dozen persons wounded.

Troops tried to enter a dormitory of the Middle East Technical University and were met by a fusillade of shots and dynamite sticks from rooftops and windows. About 2,000 students were rounded up for questioning.

The four U.S. Air Force radar technicians were seized Thursday as they went from a radar station to their billet in Ankara. All of them—Sgt. Jimmie J. Sexton of San Angelo, Tex.; and Airmen 1C Richard Caraszi of Stamford, Conn.; Larry J. Heavner of Denver; and James M. Gholson of Alexandria, Va.—were in civilian clothes and unarmed.

Barbara Sexton pleaded in a statement issued through a neighbor for her husband's release. Mrs. Sexton, who is five months pregnant and has a 13-month-old son, is the only dependent of the four kidnapped Americans.

The kidnapers' last statement, delivered with the letters, said that if the Turkish government did not broadcast acceptance of their demands "we will wait resolutely for the deadline."

Rampant student unrest, political disturbances and anti-American acts have led to tension for the past several months in Turkey.

Lead in theft of typewriters

The Ogle County Sheriff's Department today reported further information in the theft of 17 IBM Selectric Typewriters from the Oregon High School.

Sheriff Jerry Brooks said that the theft occurred between 11 p.m. Thursday and 8 a.m. Friday. According to Homer Kuethe, principal of the school, teachers had checked the doors to the school at 10 and 11 p.m. Thursday night.

A witness reported seeing two subjects park a car a few blocks from the high school late Thursday evening and walk away from it. Later, about 12:05 a.m., the witness heard the car start and pull away, and obtained the license plate number. Ogle Sheriff's deputies obtained a search warrant and after locating the vehicle in West Chicago about 3:30 a.m. Friday, searched it.

No typewriters or burglary tools were found. The State Crime Mobile Unit was called and they did uncover some evidence, Brooks noted.

The theft was discovered by a teacher Friday morning about 8 a.m. Entry was gained by prying a lock from a back door. Value of the machines was estimated at $8,000.

According to Kuethe, the school's typing classes were back in operation without delay, through cooperation of a company which provided other machines.

BERRY'S WORLD

"Maybe we're rushing the hot pants season!"

Christians, cities

By DAVID POLING

Samuel Johnson said that when you were tired of London, you were tired of life. My secretary claims that in New York you are afraid for your life.

And right at this point James W. Angell comes along with a sparkling book called "Put Your Arms Around the City" (Fleming Revell). This advocate of urban adventure and city life is fresh from the fields of Iowa. Now a pastor in Claremont, Calif., he challenges the church to consider its future in the city of man. Nowhere will you find a nostalgic dash to the corn fields or town pump or Grange Night at Marshalltown. Gone is the village green, the farm pond, the strawberry social. Angell greets another world.

Angell pleads for more attention to the city, more involvement, more affection than we have allowed or expected. He recognizes that man is often overwhelmed by the energy and mass of this urban culture, yet he feels that Christian societies have a special skill in this sort of area. Christians formed in the city, grew there, and should now put their arms and purse around it.

Western cities have a lot going for them. The climate, in spite of the smog and fog, is great. The outdoor life exists for city folk. The sea and mountains and desert and California nights are hard to beat. Western cities are different. Yes, they have crime, addicts and insane politicians, but have you been in Detroit in January or Cleveland in March?

Western cities are much newer metropolitan areas. They do not sag under the weight of old, decaying buildings and old decaying ways of doing things. The life-style of the West is amazing in contrast and the ingenuity of Christian groups on the coast and in the Southwest is pace-setting for the whole land. The West is an outdoor empire and that makes for informality and friendliness—something that should infect every city and, certainly, every city church.

Angell is right when he says we should put our arm around the city, but he would be the first to admit that out West that arm is youthful and untanned—a great asset in urban living.

Voice of the People

To the Editor:

If Mrs. Goy's letter presents an overly optimistic view of children, the letter from Dorothy Glenn (Dixon Evening Telegraph, March 2) does nothing to put the issue in its proper perspective.

Certainly children, as all of us, are, to an extent, a product of our environment. However, to state that "unwanted, uncared for children are a dreadful problem" seems to imply there is no hope for such children.

I have a more optimistic view. I believe any person can live a happy, productive, and fulfilling life, if he establishes a friendship with a person, such as a teacher, friend, relative, neighbor, counselor, or pastor, who will genuinely love and accept him for himself.

To destroy a human life on the grounds it may be a potential problem is inconceivable. Next, we will wish to destroy the aged, the infirm, the diseased, and the malformed because they are "unwanted" and "are a dreadful problem."

Her statement that "All individuals who are committed to . . . jails, mental hospitals, and other institutions should be sterilized" needs to be examined. Can she really mean that anyone who has made a mistake against society or has suffered an emotional illness, even though he may pay his debt to society or recover from the illness, is automatically adjudged to be unfit for parenthood?

I think we need to read from Dorothy Glenn's own definition of love taken from 1 Corinthians, 13 Chapter, verses 6 & 7. "Love takes not pleasure in other people's sins but delights in the truth, it is always ready to excuse, to trust, to hope, and to endure whatever comes."

Respectfully yours,
Margaret Brechon

Capitol bombing

In a physical sense, an open society like the United States is terribly vulnerable, as the insane bombing of the national Capitol has so frighteningly demonstrated.

It may be that a determined revolutionary could smuggle explosives inside the Kremlin, but in this country such an act required not determination or great cleverness but simple madness, and an unbelievable inability to understand just what America is or what the Capitol symbolizes.

The bomber or bombers did more than damage a building. They betrayed the trust of the American people in themselves—a trust that assumes that all of us, regardless of political differences, are responsible and loyal citizens.

Security will now be tightened at the Capitol, and elsewhere in Washington. To that extent, the bomber has succeeded in diminishing the freedom of all Americans.

But as President Nixon has said, our public buildings must be kept open to their owners, the people, despite the fact that some of them are unworthy of that ownership. For in the larger sense, America possesses a basic strength and toughness that is immune to the futile blackmail of terrorism.

New for southpaws

In a day when every minority is clamoring for a piece of the action, it is fitting that what is probably the world's oldest and most disadvantaged minority should begin to get its long-denied recognition.

Left-handers—not to be confused with leftists—are becoming increasingly accepted and enabled to find their right (or left) place in the world.

This is the happy report of Dr. Dean Tremby, a member of the California State Polytechnic College counseling staff.

Tremby notes that manufacturers are making more and more things for left-handed people—scissors, fishing rods, golf clubs, baseball gloves, bowling balls, rifles and shotguns, potato peelers and apple corers and can openers, irons and ironing boards, pencil sharpeners, dental instruments, artist palettes, lettering pens and drafting machines.

He even reports that a bank is furnishing left-handed checkbooks with the stub at the right.

Tremby has some tips for parents and teachers of left-handed kids to make things a little less difficult for them. In classrooms, for instance, they should be seated on the left side so that there are fewer distractions from the left to interfere with concentration.

Also recommended is use of ball-point pens, soft pencils and hard paper to make handwriting easier, increased use of the typewriter, and choice of musical instruments designed for left-hand fingering.

We still have a long way to go before the last vestiges of discrimination against left-handedness are uprooted, however. Consider the language itself.

Most people may be unaware that the word "sinister" derives from the Latin word for left, but we still talk about left-handed compliments, say that an awkward person has two left feet, proclaim that right is might and never offer to give our left arm for something desirable.

Ph D glut boon

The so-called "Ph.D. glut" is being treated like a national calamity. Instead, it could be transformed into an "unprecedented bonanza for education," says Hans Rosenhaupt, president of the Woodrow Wilson National Fellowship Foundation.

Young Ph.D.s are indeed looking for employment, he admits, but the change from a seller's to a buyer's market in education is magnified out of proportion, as bad news often is. Stories of doctors of physics who are now driving cabs have greater appeal than happier news.

The fact is that "for the first time in history there may be enough good young teachers to fill the available openings in all four-year and two-year colleges. We may even have a chance of bringing a few more highly trained young men and women into secondary schools."

By 1980, junior college enrollment will be four million. Yet few Ph.D.s. look for jobs in junior colleges, even though salary scales compare favorably with large universities, and many junior colleges don't want to hire Ph.D.s.

Obviously, a change in the orientation of higher education is needed, says Rosenhaupt, a change in emphasis which would be welcomed by many young men and women who want to be of use to society and who feel that the graduate research they have been encouraged to undertake is sometimes trivial and irrelevant.

Computerized history

WASHINGTON (NEA) — President Nixon is convinced that a Russian accommodation with the United States depends to considerable degree on the way we handle ourselves in the Indochina war.

If we cut and run, the Russians won't be interested in accommodation. They will test and probe for U.S. weaknesses (in will) with increasing vigor, perhaps so strongly they will miscalculate and precipitate a confrontation.

Nixon is known to believe, however, that if we show our determination to achieve what we believe in Vietnam, there is hope for a reasonable arrangement with Moscow.

(Providing he includes with that a willingness to take unpredictable political risks such as the Cambodia and Laos sweeps and the suppression bombings in North Vietnam.)

Nixon and his closest advisers are convinced Leonid Brezhnev and his fellows in the Kremlin inner circle are constantly on the watch for signs of deterioration (or strengthening) of U.S. will.

That the original Cuban missile crisis came about because the United States showed a lack of resolution at the Bay of Pigs.

The apparent lack of U.S. determination in several major and minor international crises led to the Russian adventurism which precipitated the Middle East crisis and probably to the recent Soviet moves aimed at building a missile submarine base at Cienfuegos in Cuba.

Nixon and his foreign strategists hold that until Soviet misconceptions are clarified, there may be little or no progress in easing Communist pressures on Berlin, in settling the Middle East confrontation, in strategic arms limitation, or in achieving peace in Vietnam, Laos and Cambodia.

The President is known to believe that recent history shows conclusively that relations with the Soviet Union have consistently improved following incidents in which the United States showed steady nerves and a strong resolve (as in the Berlin blockade).

The Worry Clinic

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE
CASE P-590: Buford and Helen Cadle are a brother-sister team of outstanding moral educators.

Via radio and television they have staunchly tried to combat the paganism expressed in that "God is dead" slogan.

"Many a man," they reiterate, "has kept straight because his mother bent her knees!"

A lot of our present rioting, campus sit-ins and vandalism can be traced to the failure of modern mothers to "bend their knees."

One of the Ten Commandments urges:

"Honor thy father and thy mother."

But on American college campuses, misguided youth are actually being taught to "shoot your parents."

I am not exaggerating!

Recently I talked to a girl with high I.Q. and valedictorian of her high school class.

She was now enrolled at my alma mater of Northwestern University.

But she helped sponsor a student riot and vicious attack on the Evanston police.

Like an automaton, she recited the usual Communistic jargon and said her group would soon take guns and shoot down all their opposition.

Suppose your father and mother were in the sights of your rifle?" she was asked.

"I'd shoot them like all the rest!" she angrily retorted.

"Dr. Crane," you may inquire in surprise, "what sort of a pagan home did such an 18-year-old come from?"

Well, her dad is a brilliant lawyer in the $40,000 annual income class.

Her family belongs to the Roman Catholic Church and has been quite faithful in attendance at mass.

"Dr. Crane," you may reply, "surely there has been some important 'generation gap' in that home, hasn't there?"

Well, you readers probably surmise the same thing.

After interviewing this coed, I found that she was especially hostile toward her mother.

The latter was a dominant type of woman, capable and very popular socially. She was also a college graduate herself.

This coed said she despised her father, because he meekly let her mother run things at home!

The coed claimed that the parents symbolize.

Those social iconoclasts are "sick" from the psychiatric angle.

Often they are megalomaniacs whose excessive devotion to "shooting their parents" and destroying the establishment, is merely to assert their own egotism!

Whereupon they would set up another establishment even more despotic than the one they are now attacking (as Russia demonstrates).

All true liberty and freedom come from the Almighty, so pagan political doctrines cannot long endure.

The Ten Commandments are still basic to good government!

"establishment" was making slaves out of the average human being, so she and her crowd were expecting to overthrow our Republic and remedy matters.

That was the typical Russian argument, too, in 1917, but the Czaristic oligarchy has merely been replaced by another oligarchy that admits no more than 10 per cent of the Russian population into its inner sanctum.

Anarchists and those who rant against the establishment, are usually transferring their inner animosity from unduly dominant parents, to law and order, policemen, soldiers and the "establishment" which such parents symbolize.

Those social iconoclasts are "sick" from the psychiatric angle.

Often they are megalomaniacs whose excessive devotion to "shooting their parents" and destroying the establishment, is merely to assert their own egotism!

Whereupon they would set up another establishment even more despotic than the one they are now attacking (as Russia demonstrates).

All true liberty and freedom come from the Almighty, so pagan political doctrines cannot long endure.

Happy birthday to . . . Joseph O. Burge, 68 years young, today . . . Mike Schrauth and Bud May, the 7th . . . Catherine Erikson, Henry Hey and little Miss Amy Lynn O'Rourke, one year old, the 8th . . . Stan Weber, the 9th . . . Bob Hofmann, the 12th.

Random thoughts on our Florida vacation . . . much more fun and exciting flying down to Palm Beach . . . more pleasurable to leave sub-zero weather and land in 83 degree temp than to leave same for a chilly 35 degree reading upon landing at O'Hare . . . Kenneth Rubey, accompanied by his handsome nine-year-old son, Sid, drove me back to Dixon . . . highly recommend Kenneth as a driver for those who prefer not to do it themselves . . . Sid isn't too talkative—but did manage to draw out the fact that he is in the fourth grade at South Central—can scarcely wait until he goes to Madison grade school—and his favorite subject is Social Science.

Our home away from home was The Breakers . . . and just like the song—"The Old Gray Mare, She Ain't What She Used To Be"—neither is the Breakers . . . it's bigger—but can't say it's better . . . the general complaint of the guests and the personnel is the lack of organization . . . all agree that times have changed but think it a shame that the once-elegant Breakers has been turned into a convention hotel . . . the guests are cognizant of the fact that it has been the personnel that made this outstanding resort click . . . but they wonder if the management is aware that this is so . . . without the likes of Nora, Beverly, Wayne, Mac, Barbara, Rita, Vince, Ray, Laura, Lura—Sam Kart and his dancing swinging music—Betty and George Montgomery—the Breakers could well be dying on the vine as have other great hotels . . . as of now the Breakers is still the top place to stay in Palm Beach . . . it has everything to offer in the way of relaxation and fun.

People were talking about . . . Paul Powell and agreeing that they, too, would like to have $800,000 in cash on hand for emergencies . . . wouldn't everybody? . . . and that juicy little item that appeared in the Palm Beach Social Pictorial . . . quoting: "Advice to that gal—bedding down with a married socialite will not make you social, at least not in Palm Beach. Leave Palm Beach before it gets too hot, and we're not referring to the weather." . . . Ted Kennedy losing his whipping post . . . the millionaire who chartered a Boeing 707 to fly non-stop from Paris to Palm Beach . . . the gentleman didn't like the lay-over in New York or the inconvenience of changing planes . . . four stewardesses and a three-man crew looked after him, his wife, nurse and three friends during the 10-hour flight.

Always prepared for that inevitable cold snap—so wasn't perturbed when it got down to 28 degrees . . . had plenty of warm clothing and felt sorry for those who scoff at taking a fur coat to Florida . . . there were many in evidence . . . as far as the mode of dress—anything goes . . . but gentlemen are still required to wear tie and jacket in the evening . . . pant suits used to be a "no, no" for women but are now acceptable . . . unfortunately, pant suits are most often seen on the women who shouldn't be wearing them.

The question of the maxi and the mini came up for comment by one society writer . . . "All skirt lengths to and including the maxi are in. Minis are out—have gone back to the beaches and tennis courts where they really belong. The few minis that showed at recent parties really looked and felt dated." . . . saw no so-called "hot pants" . . . but did spot a couple wearing "his" and "her" outfits . . . his was a shirt—her's, a dress . . . she was an Amazon type—he, a Mickey Mouse . . . emblazoned in bold print over the entire shirt and dress were the words "Never underestimate the power of a woman."

Fun to spot celebrities at the Breakers . . . Shirley Booth and Betsy Palmer (and is she ever beautiful) . . . Patrice Munsell . . . and of course band-leader Sammy Kay was back for the Winter League Golf Tournament . . . he was last year's winner in the championship flight but muffed it this year . . . and by-the-way, Ben T. Shaw won his flight in the tournament and was presented a silver tray and some pocket money at the awards banquet.

Great to see former Dixons who now live in Florida . . . the Very Reverend and Mrs. Vernon L. S. Jones . . . Pat and George Vermazen . . . Gladys and Lyle Prescott . . . Bill and Evelyn Byron who have been making Hollywood, Fla., their home these past ten years . . . their son, William, is head accountant for Disney World, scheduled to open Nov. 1st of this year at Orlando.

Finally got to see the much publicized "Lion Country Safari"—a short driving distance from West Palm Beach . . . as we drove toward the entrance noted a sign warning that "Trespassers Will Be Eaten" . . . no convertibles are allowed—and car windows must be kept closed . . . for here is where lions, rhinoceros, elephants, zebras, giraffes, ostriches, antelopes and chimpanzees freely roam.

Flew to the Bahamas with a friend for a look at Nassau . . . can't compare with Palm Beach . . . engaged a driver who showed us various spots of interest . . . we were of the opinion that the Nassau Beach Hotel was the nicest and had the most to offer . . . and it's where the action is . . . luncheon at the Britannia Beach Hotel on Paradise Island where billionaire Howard Hughes is reportedly holed up on the ninth floor . . . a gambling casino—open morning, noon and night—connects the Britannia and the Paradise Beach Hotel.

Browsed up and down colorful Bay Street—through Rawson Square where the straw market, now overflowing onto Bay street, originated . . . one can watch native women weaving their baskets, hats, etc. . . the square is a traffic jam of horsedrawn open carriages, shipy limousines, taxis, motorbikes and stroller-shoppers . . . passed by Government House . . . saw the only waterfall in the Bahamas . . . recently constructed, it is along side the Queen's Staircase—so called because its 66 hand-hewn steep-angled limestone steps are the same number as the years of Queen Victoria's reign . . . had a bird's eye view of the city from the top of the Water Tower and drove to Fort Montagu and Fort Charlotte.

Florida was great—but Dixon is so nice to come back to . . . making it doubly good to be home was seeing Mrs. Carl Shogren, of Northome, Minn. . . Rose, who has many friends in Dixon, has been a guest of the Arnold Lunds the past two weeks.

Riley-Currie ceremony

OREGON—Recent marriage vows were exchanged in St. Bride's Episcopal Church by Miss Ann Riley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Riley, Rt. 3, Oregon, and Jeffrey S. Currie, son of the William C. Curries, Evanston.

The double-ring wedding was performed by the Rev. Charles Stafford, rector of the church, and nuptial music for the candlelight service was provided by Mrs. Mervin Rhoads, organist.

Altar Bouquets

Twin bouquets of pink carnations and contrasting pink roses decorated the church altar, and lighted candles on staffs trimmed with heather and pink bows were attached to the church pews.

For her wedding, the bride was attired in a 1900 gown of ivory silk belonging to her Grandmother Riley. The gown's bodice featured leg o' mutton sleeves and a contrasting yoke featuring a high collar. A sash of rose velvet topped her floor-length skirt, and pastel-pink illusion fashioned her full-length bridal veil. As she approached the altar with her father, the bride carried a nosegay of dark-pink roses, pink carnations and heather tied with pink ribbons.

Miss Ellen Riley was her sister's maid of honor, and participating as junior bridesmaid was the bridegroom's sister, Miss Ann Currie, Evanston.

Their floor-length empire gowns of moss-green velvet featured high collars edged with crocheted ecru lace, and full sleeves ending in lace-trimmed cuffs. Their flowers were also nosegays of pink roses and carnations with accents of heather.

Mrs. Riley was attired in a costume of pink silk for her daughter's wedding, and the bridegroom's mother chose a green-silk ensemble. Orchids formed their shoulder corsages.

James S. Currie, Evanston, was his brother's best man; Leo M. Quick, Des Plaines, participated as groomsman, and ushering was done by Walter Jackson, Evanston.

Reception

The ceremony was followed by a reception in the Maxson Manor Annex when guests were registered from Oregon, Evanston, Park Ridge, Glenview and from Nashville, Tenn., and New Holstein, Wis.

The new Mrs. Currie attended Stuart Hall, Staunton, Va., and is presently enrolled as a senior at the University of Illinois in Champaign, where they are residing at 205 Country Fair Drive, Apt. 45.

Mr. Currie, a graduate of Evanston Township High School, is also a senior at the University of Illinois, and is a member of Phi Kappa Psi fraternity.

Dear Ann

by Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: Several years ago you printed Twelve Rules For Raising Children. I carried the column in my wallet until it became so dogeared and yellowed with age that it is no longer legible. Please print it again, Ann. It's worth a repeat.—San Antonio Mother

Dear Mother: Here it is. Thanks for asking:

1. Remember that a child is a gift from God, the richest of all blessings. Do not attempt to mold him in the image of yourself, your father, your brother or your neighbor. Each child is an individual and should be permitted to be himself.

2. Don't crush a child's spirit when he fails. And never compare him with others who have outshone him.

3. Remember that anger and hostility are natural emotions. Help your child to find socially acceptable outlets for these normal feelings or they may be turned inward and erupt in the form of physical or mental illness.

4. Discipline your child with firmness and reason. Don't let your anger throw you off balance. If he knows you are fair you will not lose his respect or his love. And make sure the punishment fits the crime. Even the youngest child has a keen sense of justice.

5. Remember that each child needs two parents. Present a united front. Never join with your child against your mate. This can create in your child as well as in your self emotional conflicts. It can also create feelings of guilt, confusion and insecurity.

6. Do not hand your child everything his little heart desires. Permit him to know the thrill of earning and the joy of achieving. Grant him the greatest of all satisfactions—the pleasure that comes with personal accomplishment.

7. Do not set yourself up as the epitome of perfection. This is a difficult role to play 24 hours a day. You will find it easier to communicate with your child if you let him know that Mom and Dad can err, too.

8. Don't make threats in anger, or impossible promises when you are in a generous mood. Threaten or promise only that which you can live up to. To a child, a parent's word means everything. The child who has lost faith in his parents has difficulty believing in anything.

9. Do not smother your child with superficial manifestations of "love." The purest and healthiest love expresses itself in day-in, day-out training which breeds self-confidence and independence.

10. Teach your child there is dignity in hard work, whether it is performed with calloused hands that shovel coal or skilled fingers that manipulate surgical instruments. Let him know a useful life is a blessed one and a life of ease and pleasure-seeking is empty and meaningless.

11. Do not try to protect your child against every small blow and disappointment. Adversity strengthens character and makes us compassionate. Trouble is the great equalizer. Let him learn it.

12. Teach your child to love God and to love his fellow men. Don't SEND your child to a place of worship—TAKE him there. Children learn from example. Telling him something is not teaching him. If you give your child a deep and abiding faith in God it can be his strength and his light when all else fails.

Miss Cowan is winner of Girl Scout trip

The Green Hills Council of Girl Scouts has announced that Miss Libby Cowan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Cowan, Mt. Carroll, is the selectee for a 1971 Wider Opportunity.

Miss Cowan will enjoy a two-week stay aboard the R.M.S. Queen Mary, Port of Long Beach, Calif. The ship's museums and exhibits will provide an opportunity for participants in "Aboard the Queen Mary" to explore the field of oceanography, as well as the history of the world's oceans.

Tours of the port and harbor will include off-shore oil islands, a major fishing industry facility, a working Navy ship, the North American-Rockwell Sea Lab facility, and a Port Administration and Customs Office.

A high school senior, Libby is active in drama club, band, and also maintains honor status. Her Senior Scout activities include past service as president and vice president of her troop, and as patrol leader on the Wyoming Trek. She is currently serving as patrol leader for Savanna-Mt. Carroll Senior Troop 28, and is president of her area planning board.

Miss Sheller presents club program

"Scandinavia and the Midnight Sun" was the title of Miss Alice Sheller's program for members of the Foreign Travel Club Thursday night in Loveland Community House.

Miss Sheller illustrated a resume of her recent travels in Norway, Finland, Sweden and Denmark by showing color slides of scenic areas she visited as a member of a Scandinavian Friendship Tour directed by Dr. J. Kenneth Kreider, associate professor of history at Elizabethtown College, Elizabethtown, Pa.

To Bergen

A flight from New York City took the travelers to Bergen,

Norway, an historic city surrounded by seven mountains, which was celebrating its 900th anniversary. Boat trips on the Hardanger Fjord and the Sognefjord were arranged for the tourists, and in Oslo they visited Frogner Park to view the granite statues created by sculptor Ernest Vigeland, and a Folk Museum, an outdoor area containing buildings from an old Norwegian farm and a "stave" church.

A 600-mile flight north ended in Bodo, north of the Arctic Circle, where they saw the Midnight Sun. Scenes photographed by Miss Sheller in the northern cities depicted buildings constructed since World War II as virtually all of the cities were destroyed by German Nazi troops during their occupation of the area.

Hammerfest, the northernmost city in the world, was a highlight of their itinerary, and they also toured Tromso, Lake-selv and Honningsvåg. Her photographs of North Cape were taken at 3 a.m. as during the summer months, the sun shines 24 hours daily.

The colorful costumes worn by the Laplanders, reindeer herders, were revealed in the speaker's pictures of two Lapland families they visited, and from Ivalo in northern Finland, the group flew to Helsinki, where they were escorted on guided tours of the ship yards and open-air markets.

A "social tour" arranged for the travelers in Stockholm, Sweden, included visits to the apartment of an old-age pensioner, the home of an average family, a school, shopping center, a church and the king's palace.

Copenhagen

The trip concluded in Copenhagen, Denmark, where the travelers visited Fredericksburg Castle at Heliør; Kronborg Castle in Elsinør, the site of Shakespeare's "Hamlet"; the famous Tivoli Gardens, and the Little Mermaid statue in the Copenhagen harbor, which their guide described as the "most photographed lady in Copenhagen."

Dr. Robert W. Schumm, president of the club, introduced Miss Sheller following a business session when the time for club meetings was changed from 8 to 7:30 p.m., and an illustrated program on Guatemala by Daniel Moats was announced for the next meeting April 1 in Loveland House.

Eta Chi meeting with Mrs. Crafton

Eta Chi Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi Sorority, met Wednesday night with Mrs. George Crafton, when Mrs. Steven Wiersma, a chapter pledge, was honored during a "rush party."

Mrs. Rex Heacock, chapter president, conducted the evening's business session, and card games were arranged for entertainment by Mrs. Roger White, and her assistants, Mrs. Olin Hall and Mrs. David Wilson.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Richard Schilling and Mrs. Crafton following the distribution of prizes, and the next meeting was announced for March 17 with Mrs. Shirley Smith.

SPECIAL FLAVOR

Bring a harvest of flavor to the table with canned cling peach halves filled with a combination of sour cream, chopped onion, dash of salt, tabasco and Worcestershire sauce and chutney. Especially good with hamburger steaks or broiled ham slices.

MISS DEENA CIPOLLA

ROCHELLE — Mr. and Mrs. Bill Cipolla are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Deena Lyn, to James E. Schoenholz, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Schoenholz, Neenah, Wis.

The bride-elect is the granddaughter of Mrs. John S. Riddell, DeKalb, and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Cipolla, San Pedro, Calif. Marriage vows will be exchanged by the engaged couple June 26 in St. Patrick's Catholic Church, Rochelle.

By Oswald & James Jacoby
South won the spade lead in his own hand and led the 10 of diamonds to East's queen. East led back a spade and eventually the defense made three spades, two diamonds and two clubs to set declarer three tricks.

We used this apparently simple hand to illustrate the considerable expert and near expert play.

South was the near expert. East was the real one. South won the spade with his king, then when East got in with the diamond queen he had to decide between returning his partner's suit or leading the queen, ace or 10 of clubs to set up three club tricks in his hand. Trade one of South's little clubs for West's five of spades and the club return could defeat the contract while the spade return would let declarer bring it home.

Most players would have returned the spade without thinking, but East was an expert and East thought before returning his partner's lead.

Here is East's reasoning. "South is a good enough player to know that West's lead of the jack has denied the queen, but not the king. Then, why did he win with the king to tell me that he also holds the queen? The obvious reason is that he wants me to shift to some other suit. Could he want me to shift if he held three spades to start with? No, he couldn't. I had better lead a spade and upset his little apple-cart." (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

Sunday Night Special features Jack Benny

Stars of yesterday, today and tomorrow guest with Engelbert Humperdinck on "The Engelbert Humperdinck Show" telecast on Channel 9's "Sunday Night Special" March 7, from 6 to 7 p.m.

Representing yesterday, today and tomorrow is a young man named Jack Benny who, though he first saw the light of day before the turn of the century, claims to be still in his thirties, though sometimes grudgingly admitting that he may have forgotten a few years and really have reached his forties.

"Star of Tomorrow" was an award announced for Shani Wallis while she was taping this Humperdinck show. It came from American motion picture exhibitors for her sustained success as Nancy in "Oliver!" But Shani is also a girl whose brilliant career has spanned quite a number of years and she is just as much a star of today as tomorrow.

Bobby Van can also be considered as a member of the elite time-spanning rota of entertainers, born into show business with vaudeville parents and on the show business scene himself since he was 15, with a career that has taken in the club world, movies (as a Hollywood contract player he appeared in such pictures as "Because You're Mine," "Skirts Ahoy" and "Kiss Me Kate"), Broadway, television, and recently as choreographer, producer, director and straight actor.

The major comedy routine diverges somewhat from the award winning movie "Midnight Cowboy" by taking a look at the "Midnight Cowhand", which it does in hilarious style with the assistance of Engelbert, Jack Benny, Bobby Van and Shani Wallis, taking in two numbers "Nobody Ever Talks To Me" and Hooray for Hollywood."

Laughs, of course, abound when Jack Benny is in a show, and there is some good-natured chat between the host star and his American guest.

Engelbert Humperdinck's numbers are "Hello Young Lovers", "This Is My Song", "Jean", "My Wife The Dancer", "Fool Such As I", "Am I That Easy To Forget" and "United We Stand" (with Clodagh Rodgers). And Shani Wallis sings "Yesterday I Heard The Rain".

Fight interviews on 32

As boxing approaches its best publicized, most controversial fight for the heavyweight crown, pitting undefeated former heavy-weight champion Muhammad Ali against undefeated current champion Joe Frazier, WFLD-TV will telecast a special documentary featuring exclusive interviews with both men, this Saturday, March 6, from 4 to 5 p.m. on Sunday, arch 7 (the eve of the fight), at 7 p.m.

Titled THE CHAMP'S GONNA WIN, this news documentary focuses upon the only World Heavyweight Championship fight to pit undefeated heavyweight champions against each other.

Newsman Maury Povich interviews Muhammad at his Florida training camp, where cameras catch the action as the undefeated, unfrocked heavy-weight champion works in preparation for the coming fight. Films clips are shown of the two fights Ali has had since his boxing license was restored, with Jerry Quarry and Oscar Bonavena. Ali won both by knockouts.

Meanwhile, at the Philadelphia training camp of Smokin' Joe Frazier, Povich talks with the current champion, who also predicts the outcome of the big match, while cameras see the champ in action against his sparring partners.

WILL SHE or won't she—return to the screen? That is the question raised by reports that Greta Garbo, now 65, might show up in a planned filming, by Italy's Luchino Visconti, of "Remembrance of Things Past." Rarely on public view, Garbo, in one of her more recent photographs, was caught in a characteristic pose (left) in Athens in 1966. Lensman later got a somewhat better view (above).

New for Oregon

A new business, The Country School Family Restaurant, located at the corner of Fourth and Franklin Streets, opened its doors March 1, with chicken and sandwiches, the specialty. Mr. and Mrs. Ted Cook, Milford, are managers. Cook was in the restaurant business six years in California before moving to Milford. The Cooks have three children, Tammy, 8, a second grade student; Timmy, 6, in the first grade and Todd, 2. The family will reside in Oregon as soon as quarters are available. A grand opening is planned within the next few weeks. The restaurant will be open seven days a week, from 11 a.m. to 10 p.m., Sunday through Thursday, and 11 a.m. to midnight Friday and Saturday. (Telegraph Photo)

Business news, views

The City National Bank & Trust Co., Dixon, gave recognition to members of their staff for years of service at a dinner held recently.

As a method of expressing its appreciation for the many years of service given by members of the staff, the bank has instituted the service award program. The program involves using diamonds and emeralds to designate length of service. Staff members having two years or more of service receive a basic award pin. At the five year level, and every five years thereafter, a new award is made.

At a staff meeting held earlier this week the following awards were made: Miss Flavel Spangler, 25 year pin; Mrs. Alice Meyers, 20 years; Richard Durkes and Mrs. Frances Shaw, 15 years; Mrs. Mabel Blosser, Patterson Curtis and Larry Wilson, 10 year pins. Award pins for 5 to 10 years service were given to Mrs. Lois Burket, Mrs.

Dianna Haenitsch, Mrs. Mary Johnson, Neil Petersen, D. M. Tarvin and Miss Elizabeth Whitmore.

Two year pins were presented to Mrs. Lois Bearman, Mrs. Yvonne Eccles, Miss Sandi Longman, Mrs. Burla Nelson, Herman Thompson, Mrs. Miriam Traynor and Mrs. Millie Weidman.

The members of the bank's board of directors have received jeweled cuff links displaying the bank's emblem.

Citrus golf on WGN-9

WGN Television will colorcast the final two rounds of this year's Florida Citrus Invitational tournament carrying a purse of $150,000. The third round will be seen on Saturday, March 13 at 3 p.m., and the final round on Sunday, March 14 at 2 p.m.

The tournament will be played at the Rio Pinar Country Club in Orlando, Florida, and the course includes every hazard known to golfers... lakes, streams, sand traps, towering trees and tight fairways.

Covering the open for Channel 9 audiences will be John Derr, Frank Gieber, Ray Scott, Jim Karvellis, and Bob Toski.

Portrait of Joe Frazier

"In This Corner: Joe Frazier," the portrait of a man who lives by his fists, the story of a champion with a disputed crown, will be colorcast by WGN Television on Channel 9, March 6, from 6 to 7 p.m.

As the final count-down begins for Frazier's confrontation with Muhammad Ali in the "fight of the Century" scheduled for Monday in Madison Square Garden, New York City, New York, this special offers viewers an exceptional look at Joe Frazier not only as the Heavyweight Champion of the World, but as a one-man corporation and a devoted family man.

Highlights of Joe's 1964 Olympic Gold Medal triumph which marked the starting point of his amazing professional boxing career will be seen as well as footage of the key rounds of his recent bouts with Buster Mathis, Manuel Ramos, Oscar Bonavena, Jerry Quarry and Bob Foster.

Viewers will learn about the most unique business arrangement in professional boxing, Cloverlay, the one-man million-dollar corporation, and how it has helped contribute to Joe's boxing career.

Can Joe successfully defend his World Heavyweight title against Muhammad Ali and remain undefeated? Viewers may judge for themselves when Joe's manager unveils their "battle plan" against Muhammad Ali.

"In This Corner: Joe Frazier" is a warm presentation of the life story of a truly exceptional human being. Joe's life philosophy that "with hard work anything can be accomplished" is depicted many ways as the camera's probing unfolds Joe's greatest victory, his ability to succeed in spite of overwhelming odds against him.

Whew!

Perhaps you wonder why Conoco
Furnace Fuel is the Hottest Brand Going. It's inhibited! Look . . . here's what inhibited means. While this droopy drop of oil is good, it's not the Hottest Brand Going until Conoco takes special inhibitors, or additives as some folks call them . . . and feeds them right into the oil. Then, Conoco Furnace Fuel is fully inhibited; remains stable and soluble . . .

knocks out rust, gets rid of clog-

Ken Maynard was 'real cowboy'

By BOB THOMAS

Associated Press Writer

SAN FERNANDO, Calif. (AP) — Old-time cowboy movie star Ken Maynard was sitting on the couch in his tiny trailer when the earthquake hit.

"Damn near knocked me on the floor," he recalls with a grin. "This trailer was rockin' and jumpin', and the cement brick wall was fallin' down outside."

"Was I scared? Hell, no. I've been in earthquakes before—the Long Beach earthquake in 1933, and a couple of big ones in South America."

"Funny thing about me—I'm never scared when something is happening to me. I've been in some tight fixes, especially in my airplane. While it was going on, I was as cool as can be. But afterward I wondered, 'What the hell was I doing up there?'"

Nothing much bothers Ken Maynard. The star of scores of early-day movie Westerns, he now lives in a trailer court in the town of San Fernando, which was hard hit by the Feb. 9 earthquake. He didn't leave the trailer.

Maynard has lived alone since the death of his wife two years ago. His brother, Kermit, 73, an actor in scores of Westerns who never achieved top stardom, died last January. Ken, at 75 and trimmed down from the 250 pounds he once weighed, sports a stylish beard.

When a visitor commented that the beard was ideal for character roles, he commented:

"Tell the truth, I don't care whether I work or not. I do a few things now and then—I was on the Merv Griffin Show with a bunch of oldtimers, and I did a part in a picture called 'Bigfoot,' as a favor to the producer, Bob Slatzer. In May I'm going to be grand marshal at some rodeo in Wyoming or someplace."

"But you know, I'm not looking for work. I've been performing for more than 50 years now. I've had my share. Let somebody else do it."

Unlike most of the latter-day Western stars, Ken Maynard was a real cowboy. He was born in Mission, Tex., rode the King Ranch, joined a wagon show, fought in the Mexican Revolution. He roped and rode in circuses and wild west shows, including Buffalo Bill Cody's—"I was with him when they foreclosed his show in Denver."

He drifted to Hollywood in 1923 to visit his pals Buck Jones and Tom Mix, then began working in movies. By 1924 he was starring in "$50,000 Reward" and for 20 years he was a top draw with Western fans everywhere.

His films were the most actionful of the era, featuring displays of skilled horsemanship learned as a rodeo star.

"I don't like to see my old movies," he said, "and I don't care for the Western series you see on television. I don't mind telling you they ain't much good."

"They're hardly Westerns. Mostly they're indoors, with guys sitting around a saloon. Television doesn't have any of the production that I had in my pictures—cattle drives and Indian fights and all that. They can't afford that on television."

YOU MAY NOT recognize him without his toga, but that's Charlton Heston, as a survivor of a biological war, wandering in a deserted theater in "I Am Legend."

Heston in non-epic role

By DICK KLEINER

HOLLYWOOD — (NEA) — It was a day of destruction. They came up in the elevator with clubs and they wrecked everything and overturning and ripping and tearing.

No, it's not a story of student revolt. This is a big scene in "I Am Legend," a science-fiction film now before the cameras at Warner Bros., with Charlton Heston the star.

The time is 1975. Biological warfare has wiped out everyone — well, almost everyone. Heston is still alive. He plays a scientist who had given himself a shot of something and became immune.

And there are a few other survivors, too. But they have been changed, they are mutants. And they are the ones who assault Heston's house in a fury of deranged violence.

The mutants — gray faces, gray hair, sunglasses (they can't stand the light) and heavy capes — re mostly stuntmen. Wrecking things may seem like fun, but you have to be careful about overturning heavy furniture, because it can be dangerous.

Heston's apartment is his fortress. And his museum. As the only rational man left alive, he has barricaded himself in, and surrounded himself with treasures. The walls are covered with masterpieces — replicas, of course— by Rembrandt and Van Gogh and others. And there are beautiful statues, too.

They shot the mutants breaking up Heston's lab, his arsenal, his living room, his kitchen. At one point, when director Boris Sagal yelled "Cut," one of the stuntmen kept on smashing.

"We've lost control," Heston murmured.

Heston knows exactly when he first read "I Am Legend." He says he keeps a professional journal, as distinguished from a personal diary, dealing with his professional activities. Recently, a biographer of Orson Welles asked to consult this journal about a time, in '57, when Welles and Heston were working together.

"And there it was," Heston says. "Welles had given it to me to read, as a possible film for us to do together. Nothing came of that, but I've thought, for 13 years, it would make a good film. I like science fiction, and I always have."

Compared to some of Heston's films, this is a small one. He regrets the demise of the epic film, and says the cause was the corporate conglomerates.

"At the time the epic films were flourishing," he says, "the corporate conglomerates took over Hollywood, and none of them knew how to handle epics."

He says there was "criminal profligacy" in the way some of them spent money. He cites the example of Mike Nichols, who directed "Catch-22," and, Heston says, "insisted that all the bombs stacked up on the field be real bombs, rather than painted replicas. That kind of expense is totally unnecessary."

Heston believes that no picture should cost more than $9 or $10 million, and he believes he could do "Ben-Hur," which cost around $12.5 million in '59, for $9 or $10 million today, "although we would have to cut some corners."

'SEVEN-LEAGUE' BOOTS are attractive, but French actress Barbara Bouchet is counting more heavily on the jet engine to get her from Rome to Munich.

Warner Bros. 'recycles' old props

By DICK KLEINER
 HOLLYWOOD — (NEA) — Hollywood used to be famous for never throwing anything away. Everybody's old costumes, all the old sets, thousands of ancient props—they were always somewhere around the lot. It was everybody's attic, on a monster scale.

Mostly, that's all gone now — MGM auctioned off everything and 20th Century-Fox is about to do the same. But, at the moments, the Warner Bros. studio still has much of its grand past, and it is currently paying off.

They are shooting a two-hour pilot for a detective series set in the '30s, "Banyon." It will be shown this spring as a movie-for-television and if it sells, it will be a series next season.

The company was filming on a set, and even the set was a left-over — it was the grand entrance hallway of "Hotel." Parked outside were four or five cars from the '30s, part of the studio's still-intact fleet of old vehicles. And the costumes were hand-me-downs, too.

The male extras had fun looking at the labels inside, which frequently indicated that the garments had been worn by Bogart or Cagney, and girls' gowns had similar labels, bearing names like Sheridan and Hayworth.

"Banyon" is the brainchild of an old radio writer named Ed Adamson. He goes back to the days of Inner Sanctum and he says he has always loved the '30s era. He named his leading character, a private eye, Miles Banyon. He says the Miles is a tribute to Dashiell Hammett, because Miles was Sam Spade's assistant.

Playing Miles Banyon is Robert Forster, one of the best young actors around. It's his first try for a series and he's not sure whether or not he wants it to sell.

"I'm going back to New York," he says, "to do a play — 'The Edge.' Michael Gazzo's new play, with Martin Balsam and Bernadette Peters. If it's a hit and 'Banyon' sells, there's a conflict, but I'll worry about that later.

Adamson says the '30s is a hard period to write about.

"It's between the camp of the '20s and camp of the Zoot Suit era," he says.

But he's being very authentic about it and authenticity is expensive. This pilot is costing $1.25 million — about what an average feature costs these tight days. And the series would necessarily be an expensive series, too.

One curious sidelight, which even Adamson didn't expect, is the difficulty in hiring male extras.

"They won't cut their hair," he says, "and you can't have any long-hairs in a '30s production. At one extra call, half the men walked out when they found out they'd have to cut their hair."

ROBERT FORSTER is starred in a neo-19 30s made-for-television movie, "Banyon."

Rochelle tramples Dukes, 81-61

STERLING— Rochelle couldn't find what it wanted while at DeKalb, so the Hubs made the switch to Sterling— and found it.

Rochelle completed utter domination of the Sterling regional basketball tournament— in its first year here—Friday night with an 81-61 plastering of Dixon in the finals, and earned the right to play Fulton, 62-58 ouster of Morrison last evening, 67-61. It was Rochelle's first regional win in 16 years.

Only in the third period was the game close at all. Behind by a laughable 40-24 margin at halftime, Dixon roared back with some firepower of its own, while stopping the Hubs cold from the field with a sticky man-to-man defense.

The Dukes closed the margin to within six points, 45-39 at one point, before the Hubs regained their form, and once again put the clubs to the Dukes.

Rochelle Coach Gentry wore a big grin when reporters asked about his team's third period stumbling.

"Nervous? No, I think we were just a little too relaxed. After all, when a team has a 16 point lead, there is a tendency to let up a bit. Once we got going again . . ."

And he goes on, describing what his Hubs—sparked by 6-7 senior Tom Carmichael and 5-9 guard Bruce Johnson—did to the Dukes. Did he change anything when Dixon went from the first half's zone defense to the man-to-man?

"No, we went with nearly the same type of play, but the boys weren't setting up, running the offense. They weren't even lining up right—I don't know what they were doing. When the man-to-man shut off our outside game, we had to find our game inside . . . We adapted quite well."

Brad Kipping took the game's opening tip from Ron Smith, and raced the rest of the way for a layup which gave Dixon a 2-0 lead. Another layup by Smith a minute later gave the Dukes a 4-0 edge, and it appeared the Dukes were going to make a runaway of the contest. But Rochelle started hitting in the following moments, and Dave Lockridge, another 6-7 senior, tied the score 6-6 with a shot from the left baseline. Scott Sanderson hit on a long shot from the left side again, to break the deadlock, 8-6. The Hubs kept pouring points through the hoop, and by the end of the stanza, led 18-9.

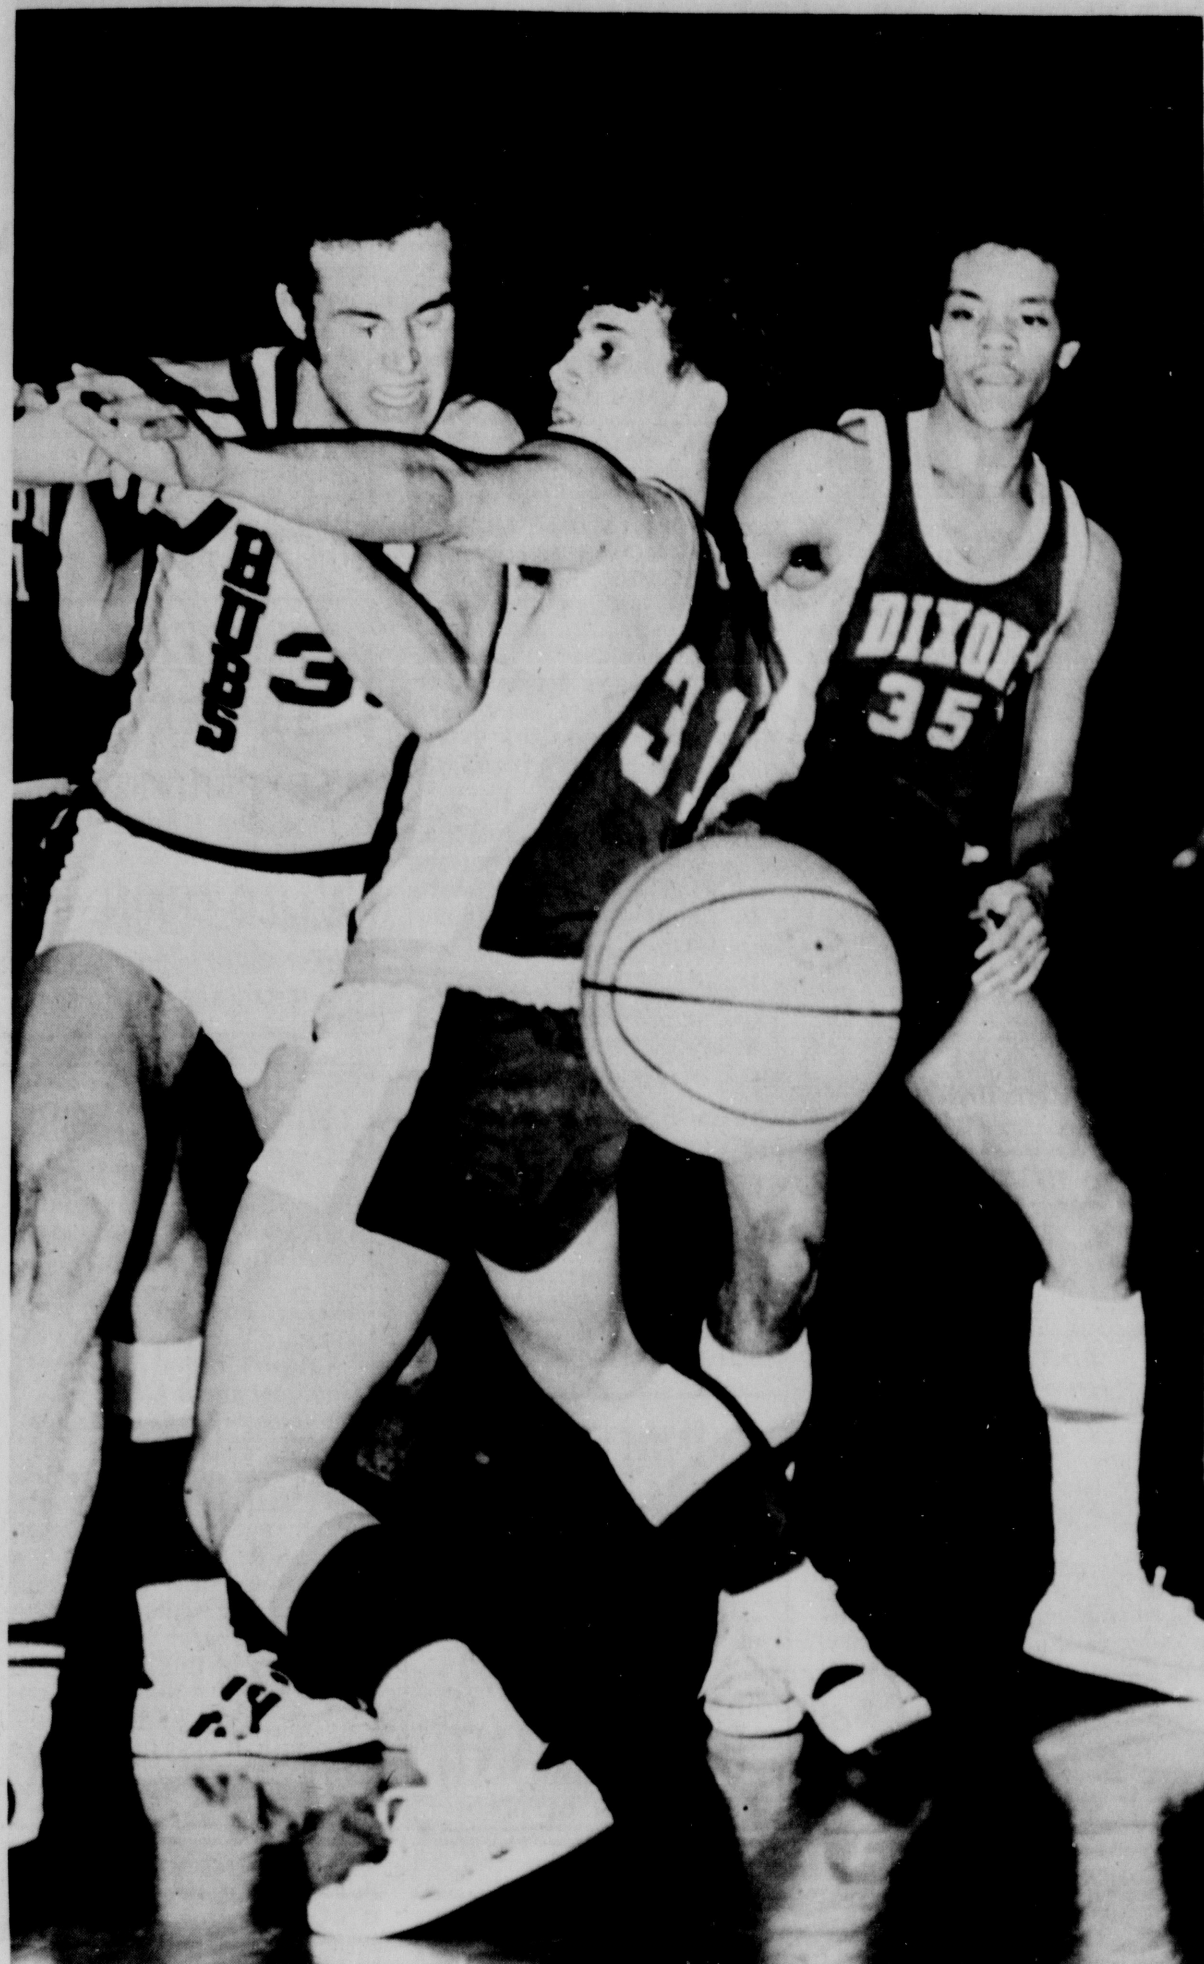

Carmichael and Johnson led the scoring with six points apiece, while Smith mustered four for the Dukes—and led the team. Kipping's layup opening the game was the only bucket of the period for the 6-2 possible all-state senior forward.

When the second period started, Rochelle rattled off eight straight points to take a 26-9 lead. Dixon coach Dick Franklin hoped to put an end to the Rochelle barrage by slipping in James Shaw in place of starting guard Gary Kopacz, and while helping a bit, Rochelle still managed to take an 18-point lead late in the period, and eventually a 40-26 cushion at halftime.

The Dukes switched to a man-to-man in the final moments, closing off some slick outside shooting by Johnson and Sanderson.

The Hubs connected on 57 per cent of field goals in the first half, as Johnson finished the first 16 minutes with 14 points. Carmichael finished with 12, and Lockridge eight. Jeff Huffman, who started the game at forward, hit from the outside on four occasions for the Dukes, and finished the half leading the team with 10 points. Kipping and Smith both had six apiece.

When Dixon came to the floor in the third period, however, it was quite evident that Rochelle had to fight a battle to win. Still yawning over the big lead, the Hubs nearly found themselves the victim of a great Dixon comeback—but held on.

Little Jim Williams started the half for Dixon, replacing starting guard Dave Love. Following two Rochelle baskets and a field goal and free throw by Dixon, Williams hit from the charity stripe for one, and was replaced again by Love.

Outscoring the Hubs 13-2 in the following four minutes, Dixon came to within six, 45-39, before succumbing to a startled Hub attack.

Lockridge hit for two from the free throw line. Carmichael followed with a bucket from underneath, and Johnson added a couple free throws to regain Rochelle's comfortable edge, 51-39. With 37 seconds to go, Kopacz replaced Shaw in the Dixon lineup, and the shifty guard teamed with Love in the ensuing seconds to force two Rochelle turnovers—directly responsible to the press. Only the press saved Dixon from total disaster in the final moments of the third, as the Hubs took a 53-45 edge into the fourth period.

Rochelle outscored Dixon, 13-4, in the opening stages of the fourth, and the game was nearly locked up for the Hubs. Rochelle advanced to the finals by whipping Amboy in the opener, and clubbing Rock Falls in the semi-finals. Dixon edged Mt. Morris, and dumped Sterling Thursday to fight its way into the finals.

Dixon is the site of this week's sectional tournament.

Not many rebounds eluded the grasp of either Dave Lockridge (33) or teammate Tom Carmichael (not shown here) but a couple did, as this one here. The ball bounced out of bounds, and Rochelle picked up control. A seemingly apparent foul, with Lockridge battling Dixon's Gary Kopacz (31) wasn't called, as James Shaw (35) looks on. Metzger to spark Astros Houston title contender?

By TED MEIER

Associated Press Sports Writer
The Houston Astros have come up with a rookie shortstop, Roger Metzger, who Manager Harry Walker thinks may make the Astros a contender in the National League this season.

Never mind that Metzger was caught rounding first base too wide for an out that snuffed out a ninth inning rally as the Boston Red Sox beat the Astros 4-3 Friday in the opening of the major league exhibition baseball season.

"That's something we'll work on," Walker said. "The kid is a good runner, he's intelligent and a hard worker. We'll tell him what he did wrong and he won't make that mistake again. He made some plays in the field and got a hit in the ninth when we needed to keep things going."

In other opening games of the so-called Grapefruit League in Florida, the New York Yankees beat Washington 6-1. Atlanta downed Montreal 4-2 and Pittsburgh shaded the Chicago White Sox 2-1.

In the Cactus League in Arizona, Oakland blanked San Diego 2-0. San Francisco walloped the Chicago Cubs 9-4 and Milwaukee defeated the Tokyo Lotte Orions 6-4.

Stan Bahnsen, Bill Burbach and Ron Klimkowski combined for a two-hitter in pitching the Yankees over the Senators at Pompano Beach. Four singles by Ralph Garr and a two-run triple by Sonny Jackson helped the Braves overcome the Expos at West Palm Beach. The Pirates got only three hits, but made the most of them in shading the White Sox at Sarasota.

Vida Blue, Chris Floethe and Arthur Boyd combined for a three-hitter as the A's shut out the Padres. Homers by Ted Kubiak, Bill Voss, Danny Walton and Dave May paced the Brewers over the Orioles at Tempe.

The Giants banged out 18 hits in bombarding the Cubs at Scottsdale.

Defending champs whipped LaGrange kayoed in regional

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Lyons of LaGrange, the defending Illinois State High School basketball champion, was kayoed Friday night in the regional championships but the top four contenders came through victoriously.

Lyons was victimized in its own regional and the fifth-ranked Lions dropped a 67-61 decision to Oak Lawn as C.J. Kupec scored 29 points.

Owen Brown, Lyons' 6-8 pivotman who matched Kupec in height but gave away 29 pounds in weight, paced the Lions with 20 points.

While LaGrange was dropping out of the tournament which now advances to sectional play next Tuesday night, top-ranked Thornridge led a bevy of favorites to victories.

Thornridge slammed past Thornton 66-58, second-ranked Proviso East slipped past St. Ignatius 60-57, third-ranked Joliet Central hammered Lockport Central 51-37 and Benton, the No. 4 team in the state, blasted West Frankfort 85-75.

Paris, the sixth-ranked team, cruised to its 27th victory without defeat by slugging Marshall 82-47 as Otho Tucker scored 31 points. Teutopolis humbled Effingham St. Anthony 96-72 and will face Paris Sectional.

Ottawa Marquette, ranked No. 9, edged Ottawa 56-53 as Bob Guyette, one of the state's top players, scored 27 points.

Moline set some kind of a record by winning a third straight regional overtime game. Moline, ranked No. 11, defeated East Moline 67-65. Bruce Elvidge led the victors with 23 points and scored the winning basket with 40 seconds left.

Quincy, the No. 14 team in the state, was upset by Quincy Catholic Boys, 76-70.

Frazier, Ali both predicting wins

NEW YORK (AP) — Joe Frazier and Muhammad Ali know what they plan to do during and after The Fight. All that remains is the waiting and wondering.

Frazier, who has predicted Ali won't be able to stand the pressure of his attack, said Friday after a workout in Philadelphia that he will win his scheduled 15-round title defense Monday night in Madison Square Garden in from one to 10 rounds.

"I don't want it to go beyond the first round if I can help it," the 6-5 favorite said, and added: "I'll be at the party."

This was in reference to a victory party for Frazier which set for a New York Hotel and which has been advertised in a New York newspaper.

The advertisement has irked Ali who said after a workout in Miami Beach, Fla., Friday: "That's one party Frazier's gonna cancel. It might be more like a funeral."

Ali's post-fight plans call for a gathering ".... at some hotel, my buddies from all over the world and me. Ain't gonna be no party, though. It'll just be a meetin' with my fans."

Ali, who has said he will win with speed and boxing ability, said, "Frazier's got to cut. I'll tag him—pow, pow—and then dance away. Nobody can go without cuttin' after six or eight rounds."

It was not known when the fighters would arrive in New York during the weekend.

Frazier is expected to weigh about 205 Ali about 215.

Frazier sparred five-rounds Friday and said he planned a light workout today.

Johnny Wooden wins No. 500

By TED MEIER

Associated Press Sports Writer
Another honor has come to Johnny Wooden who has made UCLA synonymous with success in college basketball.

The coach of the top-ranked Bruins, after their fifth straight national collegiate championship, reached victory No. 500 in his UCLA career Friday night.

It came with the Bruins' 103-69 trouncing of California for their 23rd triumph in 24 games. Wooden, in his 23rd year at UCLA, never has had a losing season. His UCLA record is 500-140 and, including his two years at Indiana State at Terre Haute, his over-all career mark reads 547 victories against 154 defeats.

The Bruins' fast break overwhelmed the Golden Bears. Curtis Rowe led the Bruins with 23 points. Sydney Wicks and Steve Patterson chipped in with 21 each.

Southern California, No. 3 in The Associated Press rankings, had a more difficult time in overcoming Stanford 83-74 behind Dennis Layton's 23 points. Fifth-ranked Penn made it 25 in a row by crushing Cornell 108-64.

Furman and Richmond, two underdogs, surprised by reaching the final in the Southern Conference tourney. Furman upset first-seeded Davidson 83-79 and Richmond eliminated second-seeded William-Mary 66-64. Jerry Martin led Furman with 36 points. Jim Hewitt paced Richmond with 25.

LaSalle shaded Lafayette 74-71 and St. Joseph's whipped Rider 89-69 in the semifinals of the Middle Atlantic Conference playoffs. The Explorers and Hawks play tonight for the right to play in the NCAA tourney, as do Furman and Richmond.

Arizona put a damper on the WAC title hopes of Texas-El Paso by beating the Miners 82-77. In other games Columbia whipped Princeton 71-62.

Slight betting leaning toward Frazier—not Ali

LONDON (AP) — Take a trip around London's legalized betting shops and gambling on the Joe Frazier-Muhammad Ali world heavyweight title is spelled out on the board for you.

The betting is there along with odds on the horses and the dogs.

Latest betting: 8-11 Ali or Clay as he's usually named in England; 5-4 Frazier.

In betting terms that means you've got to lay 11 pounds to win eight pounds on Ali. Bet four pounds on Frazier and you stand to win five pounds.

You get your stake back in addition to your winnings. It's estimated that there are about 16,000 legalized betting shops in Britain. Odds vary from shop to shop.

On the Ali-Frazier fight some bookies have Ali 8-11 favorite with Frazier 11-10; Others 8-11 Ali with Frazier 5-4; Some have Ali 7-11 and Frazier even money.

Meeting for sponsors

There will be a meeting for any interested sponsors of the Wednesday night slo-pitch league (25 and over) Monday, March 8, at 7:30 p.m. at the Chamber of Commerce Building.

During the month of May games will also be played on Monday.

DID THE DAMAGE—Rochelle's Bruce Johnson, shown here going in for a layup, did much of the damage to the Dixon team Friday night as the Hubs ripped Dixon, 81-61, to advance to the Dixon sectional tournament against Fulton. Johnson scored 22 points — 14 in the first half. (Telegraph Photo).

Accidents keep state police busy

State Police investigated several accidents in the past 24 hours.

Kevin Coats, 20, Sterling, and a passenger in his car, Linda Fesler, 17, Sterling, were admitted to Community General Hospital, Sterling, following an accident at 2:30 a.m. today, five miles south of Rock Falls on the Prophetstown Road. Both are listed in good condition.

The Coats auto was eastbound when it ran off the road, hit a fence and pole. Damage to the vehicle was $2,500; to the high-line pole, owned by Commonwealth Edison, $150, and to the fence, owned by Cleo Conboy, $20.

Coats was ticketed for failure to reduce speed to avoid an accident.

In another accident, at 10:25 p.m. Friday, five miles east of Sterling on U.S. Alt. 30, Gary L. Miller, 25, Sterling, was attempting to pass another car when he was forced off the road. He went into a ditch and through a fence, belonging to Sauk Valley College, and hit a state highway sign. Damage to the auto was $500.

David L. Barker, 58, Rockford, was ticketed for driving too fast for conditions following an accident at 8:30 p.m. Friday on U.S. 51, at the Holcomb Crossing, north of Rochelle.

A car, driven by Berniece E. Brace, 39, David Junction, was northbound on 51, and stopped for traffic, when it was hit in the back by the Barker auto. Damage to Barker's vehicle was $500 and to the Brace car, $400.

Cars driven by Marilyn J.

Swift, 35, Elburn, and Sharon J. Schwarz, 23, Franklin Grove, were involved in an accident at 8:10 p.m. Friday, on U.S. 51 and Ill. 72, north of Rochelle.

The Swift car, traveling west on 72, pulled in front of the southbound Schwarz auto and was struck.

Marilyn Swift was arrested for failure to yield at a stop intersection.

Damage to the Swift car was $300 and to the Schwarz vehicle, $600.

Following another accident Friday afternoon, two miles east of Dixon, on Ill. 2 and the Flagg Blacktop, Connie K. Richard, 21, Dixon, was ticketed with failure to reduce speed to avoid an accident.

A southbound car driven by Catherine Bopp, 66, Dixon, was stopped to make a left turn, waiting for oncoming traffic, when the Richard woman's auto ran into the back. Damage to the Bopp car was $200 and to the Richard auto, $800.

A one-car accident occurred at 4 p.m. Friday eight miles west of Oregon, on the White Pines Road. Randy C. McDonald, 18, Oregon, was westbound when he claimed to have been forced off the road as he went over a hill. He applied his brakes, lost control, slid over 1,000 feet, crossed the road and shoulder and struck a fence. He was ticketed for improper lane usage, and failure to reduce speed to avoid an accident.

Damage to the car was $1,500 and to the fence, $100. The fence is owned by Marshall Woodworth, Oregon.

Three accidents probed by police

Dixon Police investigated three accidents late Friday in the city.

The first, at 6:40 p.m., involved autos driven by Judith G. Wieman, 17, 531 E. Chamberlin St., and Cecil W. Norris, 66, Forreston.

Officers said that the Wieman car was southbound on Galena Avenue, as was the Norris auto, when the Norris auto attempted to change lanes, and struck the Wieman vehicle. No arrests were indicated.

Dorothy K. Jones, 45, 714 Douglas Ave., was cited for failure to reduce speed following an 8:30 p.m. accident near the Peoria Ave.-Second St. intersection. Officers said that a car driven by Michael R. Hess, 17, 606 E. Morgan St., was approaching the intersection and stopped for a signal, and the Jones auto hit the Hess vehicle in the rear.

The third accident, at 11:13 p.m., occurred in the driveway of the Clark Station on South Galena Avenue. Officers said that a car driven by Marlene J. Lyon, 18, 117 1/2 Hennepin Ave., pulled into the station, and was struck by a backing auto driven by John W. Pope, 18, Sterling, who was attempting to get out of the way of a semi-trailer pulling into the station.

No injuries were reported and no citations indicated.

Nabbed after complaints of staggering

Dixon Police arrested a Sterling man on two charges early today, after he was observed staggering along Fourth Avenue.

Officers investigating several complaints by motorists proceeding on the street about the man, went to the scene and apprehended Gordon Loy Jr., Rt. 4, Sterling, staggering up the street. When officers attempted to put the man in the squad car, he became belligerent and unruly.

Officers arrested Loy on charges of a pedestrian walking on a highway (under the influence) and for disorderly conduct.

The incident occurred about 1:35 a.m. today.

Meeting on Tollway

ROCHELLE — Del Flessner, Ogle County Farm Bureau secretary, has announced a meeting Monday evening at 7:30 at the Rochelle National Bank to explain procedures in land acquisition for the extension of the East-West Illinois Tollway.

Tollway officials, including John Lavery, Walter Pyle, Ray Warns and George Knoblock, will be on hand.

It has been learned that the timetable for the project has been stepped up and that most land acquisition will be made within 90 days.

Bad news for anglers

No trout stocking at Coleta, Pines

Area trout fishermen received bad news in the confirmation of the report that the ponds at Coleta and the creek at White Pines State Park would not be stocked this spring.

James Liston, Lee County Conservation Officer, confirmed the report for the Telegraph.

The reason, Liston said, was because of diseased fish at the U.S. Bureau of Fisheries hatchery. The ponds there had to be disinfected.

"Regretfully," Liston said, "if Illinois wanted any trout, it was a case of taking them in February or not getting them at all. Trout the size we get from the hatchery could not have survived a February stocking in Coleta or the Pines creek. The only place we had to put them was in Lake Michigan. They're chances for survival there at the time we got them are far greater."

Liston went on, "For some time now the department has seen the need for a holding area for cold water fish such as trout. If we'd have had one now there would have been no problem. Maybe this incident will help us in our battle for funds to get such a facility."

Accident at junction

Cars driven by James W. Todd, 29; Kenneth R. Miller, 44, and Donald R. Smith, 58, all of Polo, were involved in an accident last evening on Ill. 26 at the curve by Ill. 5 junction.

Todd was forced to the right, almost hitting a guard rail, by an unidentified motorist. His auto was hit in the back by Miller, who could not stop, and Smith, also unable to stop, hit Miller's vehicle.

Investigation was by the Ogle County Sheriff's Department. Damage to Todd's car was $300; to Miller's, $500, and to Smith's, $600.

Also investigated by the sheriff's department was an accident at 1:33 a.m. today, one-third mile east of Mt. Morris on Ill. 64, Russell M. Birks, Rt. 2, Oregon, was eastbound when his front wheel dropped off the pavement and into the ditch.

Snow-slick roads caused an accident at 1:44 a.m. today. William T. McGinnis, 50, Oregon, was eastbound on Mud Creek Road when he attempted a right turn on Leaf River Road, missed the curve and went into a ditch. Damage to the car was $25 and the sheriff's department investigated.

Arrested and lodged in White-side County Jail, Morrison, awaiting a preliminary hearing Monday are:

Richard Eugene Dougherty, 22, 2128 Cummins St., Dixon, charged with possession of a hypodermic needle and use of narcotic drugs.

Perry Olinger, 22, of the Sterling address, charged with possession of dangerous drugs and a felony count for possession of narcotics and a hypodermic needle.

Veronica Durkin, 23, of the Sterling address, charged with the same counts as Olinger.

Marie DeLuna, 18, of the Sterling address, also charged with the same counts as Olinger.

Cathy Miller, 18, 406 Dixon Ave., Rock Falls, charged with possession of a hypodermic needle.

Arrests

OREGON — State Police made several arrests early today.

Peter W. Johnson, 20, Rochelle, was arrested at 2 a.m. for illegal possession of liquor as a minor and no valid driver's license. Johnson is free on a $109 cash bond.

Also free, on $1,000 bond, is Phyllis A. Johnson, 18, Rochelle, arrested at 1:55 a.m. for illegal possession of liquor as a minor.

Jon T. Mullis, 17, Claire, was arrested at 2 a.m. for illegal possession of liquor as a minor. He is being held in the Ogle County Jail with bond set at $1,000.

Junior Montiel, 19, Rochelle and Henry E. Shuey, 19, Rt. 1, Maple Park, were arrested at 2 a.m. south of Rochelle on U.S. 51, for illegal possession of liquor as minors. Both are in Ogle County Jail with bond set at $1,000 each.
